BC, Riga, 15.04.2013.

On Friday, Latvian Defense Minister Artis Pabriks met with Danish Defense Minister Nick Haekkerup, during which the two sides agreed on cooperation in cyber-defense, informs LETA.

"Cyber-attacks go beyond state borders, thus international cooperation is important in tackling these modern-day challenges," Pabriks pointed out.

The Danish defense minister informed that, similar to Latvia, the Danish Defense Ministry has taken over cyber-defense activities in the country.

During the meeting, the Latvian defense minister thanked Denmark for its participation in the NATO patrol of Baltic airspace.

At the same time, Pabriks invited his Danish counterpart to participate in the next "Riga Conference", which will take place in September.
